CARD Adult Services

The Center for Autism and Related Disabilities (CARD) is committed to helping individuals become valued and productive citizens. We achieve this goal through utilizing evidence based practices that are developmentally appropriate for each stage of the lifespan. As individuals with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) move from their school years to adulthood, there are numerous services, systems, and supports that need to be considered in order to ensure an individual's on-going quality of life. Topics such as transition from school to the world of work and/or college; lifestyle planning; social security benefits and use of work incentives, and preparation for independent living are just a few of the areas that we address with our constituents at CARD.

Our Vision...

Our vision for adults with ASD is for them to have the same opportunities in life that are available to all citizens. These opportunities include:

- Being as independent as possible
- Having a safe place to live
- Holding a job that suits their capacities and interests
- Having a social life that includes real friends
- Making important choices in their life
- Being supported to fulfill their potential as contributing members of society.
